Adopt-a-Child now underway at Sunburst Projects

Special to Valley Community News

The holiday season is just around the corner and Sunburst Projects is busy preparing for their annual "Adopt-a-Child Project" for the holidays, which serves hundreds of children living with AIDS/HIV each holiday season.

In this time of reduced budgets and services, Sunburst Projects is working on trying to provide the families they serve with basic needs for the holidays (toilet paper, diapers, food, laundry, soap, etc.) in addition to providing the children a holiday gift.

It's simple to participate. When you adopt a child or children, you will receive the first names, ages and knowledge of any special wishes. There will be a gift list with age appropriate suggestions available upon request. Wrap gifts into a large plastic trash bag labeled with the child's name and number. Arrange to drop off gifts no later than Dec. 13.

Gift certificates to a local grocery store for the family are always welcome. If you prefer, a cash donation can be made to Sunburst Projects and one of the elves will do the shopping for you. This is especially helpful in filling in basic needs and making sure unadopted kids get gifts for the holidays. Donations do not need to be large; every dollar counts.

If you have any questions, or would like to participate, call Jennifer at 440-0889 or email Jennifer@sunburstprojects.org.

Cecily Hastings and Lisa Schmidt, cofounders of the Friends of East Sacramento, want to make weddings the primary source of income for the Clunie Center.

New developments underway in McKinley Park neighborhood

By JOHN COOPER
 East Sacramento News writer
john@valcomnews.com

From renovating the Clunie Center, to rebuilding the playground, beautifying the rose garden and expanding the Greek Orthodox Church, McKinley will be a neighborhood "designed by the community" and presented by the community," in the words of Councilman Steve Cohn at a recent McKinley East Sacramento Neighborhood Association meeting.

Councilman Cohn made the above statement in regards to the efforts to rebuild McKinley Playground, in which he stated that more than $600,000 has been approved for reconstruction, and assured the community that all funds were gathered either from insurance claims or excess city money.

Cohn said the new playground will look like the old one, however, several changes will be made. There is intent to use a synthetic wood material as opposed to the real thing, and foam floors will likely replace the woodchips currently in use.

Across the park, the rose garden and Clunie Center will also see vast improvements.

Cecily Hastings and Lisa Schmidt, cofounders of the Friends of East Sacramento, are spearheading efforts to gather volunteers for maintenance of the gardens, namely general upkeep or the removal of dead flowers. So far, funds have been raised for the first year of upkeep, but $30,000 is still needed to complete the project.

Hastings and Schmidt want to make weddings the primary source of income for the Center, so they are working on a marketing package for local restaurants before advertising to the community. Their plan is to have East Sac restaurants cater weddings.

McKinley Park itself will not be the only part of the McKinley neighborhood to be renovated. The Greek Orthodox Church and Sutter Memorial have remodel plans in the works.

Architect Dan Eriksson and building chairman George Koufasimis explained plans for the renovation and expansion of the Greek Orthodox Church, located at the corner of Alhambra and F Street. The expansions will include a large hall, an education center, and a new courtyard.

The project will include demolishing most of the structures on the block (but not the existing church) and merging the entire block except for the physical therapists' office on the corner of Alhambra Boulevard and G Street. According to the church's master plan, the current church building would ultimately be demolished and replaced with a new one. But that's a long ways off, maybe a decade or so. The new hall will house a variety of events, as well as adapting and building on existing architecture.

Representatives of StoneBridge Properties LLC were also at the meeting to announce upcoming renovations to Sutter Memorial Hospital, which will help the building blend in with the surrounding neighborhood.

Preparing for the 2012-2013 Flu Season

By MICHAEL SIEGEL, M.D.
 Special to Valley Community News

Though summer vacation and barbecues aren't far behind us, as a physician for Molina Healthcare, I remind my patients that it is never too early to get vaccinated for the upcoming flu season. The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) recommends that the public gets vaccinated as soon as the new vaccine is offered since the antibodies take about two weeks to provide the full measure of protection. Even if you were vaccinated in years past you should still get vaccinated because every year the vaccine is not only different, but also modified to protect against the flu strains most likely to be seen the coming season.

When does flu season start? Flu season can begin as early as October, and typically lasts through May, peaking in January and February. Although the flu usually doesn't hit until the fall, the CDC and the World Health Organization (WHO) – two organizations that determine the contents of the influenza vaccine to be developed each year – have been looking toward the next flu season for a while. This is because the vaccine manufacturing process begins six to nine months ahead of time to insure enough supply on hand.

Who should get vaccinated? The CDC recommends that anyone over six months of age gets vaccinated, especially those at high risk for complications. This includes people with chronic medical conditions like asthma, diabetes and chronic lung disease, pregnant women, children between six and 23 months of age, anyone 65 or older and those who live with or care for those listed as high risk.

Who shouldn't get the vaccine? People with severe allergies, especially those with an allergy to eggs, should check with their doctors. Anyone who has had a severe

Indigents to be remembered

at East Lawn Memorial Park, Oct. 20

By LANCE ARMSTRONG
East Sacramento News writer
Lance@valcomnews.com

In recognition of the indigents who died in Sacramento County during the past 160-plus years, an event sponsored by the Sacramento County Cemetery Advisory Commission, in conjunction with East Lawn Memorial Park, will be held at 4300 Folsom Blvd. this Saturday, Oct. 20 at 10 a.m.

According to the Webster's New World Dictionary of American English, the word, "indigent," is defined as "in poverty; poor, needy; destitute; (or) lacking; destitute (of)."

This dedication is the first of three annual events during October, which was designated as Cemetery Appreciation Month through the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors on the request of the county cemetery commission.

All three events will focus on remembering these aforementioned indigents, who at times have been referred to as "county burials."

In speaking about this Saturday's event, Dr. Bob LaPerriere, co-chair of the commission, said, "We should not stereotype an indigent. A common perception is that they are a homeless or street person. However, they could be someone affected by the Great Depression and were not able to afford the cost of a burial, or some may be 'lost souls' who left home and were separated from their families and had no one to attend to their final disposition. This situation was probably common during the Gold Rush."

LaPerriere, who will give a speech at the Oct. 20 event, related an example of a wealthy person who was buried as an indigent. "One of the 'indigents' buried in the Sacramento Historic City Cemetery discovered one of the richest silver mines in Nevada, but was buried as an indigent when his family was not available to pay for his interment," LaPerriere said.

These October events are a continuation of the commission's efforts, which began in 2003 with the creation and dedication of five memorials to honor more than 15,000 indigents who have no individual grave markers.

The Oct. 20 event will focus on an area at East Lawn Memorial Park that was provided to the county at minimal cost for interment of indigents from 1932 during the Depression to 1955. The total number of interments in that section is 703.

Alan Fisher, president of East Lawn Memorial Parks and Mortuaries, said, "We're of the opinion that every individual deserves a respectable, permanent memorial, a resting place that is protected, that is cared for, and we think that regardless of circumstances in one's life, we want to honor those who have gone before us and we've kind of established East Lawn as a place where that can occur."

And in sharing his feelings about the indigents burial area at East Lawn, Craig Peterson, manager of East

Lawn Memorial Park, said, "East Lawn wants to provide a respectable setting, so we've placed sod in that (indigents) area, we've cleaned the area and now we're just happy to have the public come and see where these folks who are not forgotten, where their resting place is being cared for and respected, as well."

Among the people who have a direct connection to an indigent burial in the capital city is Sacramento resident Nola Williams.

In an exclusive interview for this article, Nola shared a personal story regarding one of her deceased family members.

"About 16 years ago, I started work on a family tree," Nola said. "I knew nothing about my grandfather (who was known as Ray Williams, although that was not his given birth name), my father's father, when I started this project, as I was born in the later part of 1964 and my grandfather (who was born in 1888) died in the early part of 1964 and no one discussed my grandfather."

"When I learned that my grandfather was buried as an indigent and that he had no headstone, I started a quest to find out where, specifically, he was buried. I was determined to purchase a headstone for my grandfather to honor him as someone who was loved and who was important, and this was the only way that I knew to honor him."

Nola said that her work to discover the exact location of her grandfather was not a simple task.

Although she knew that her grandfather had been buried in the old Bellview Cemetery on Elder Creek Road, she said that she had a difficult time discovering his plot number, as the cemetery was in poor condition and she could not initially find records for the cemetery.

"I took a week off work at the time in order to visit various county offices in my search to find my grandfather's plot number in the cemetery, as well as a corresponding plot map," Nola said. "At the time, no one could help me with this information. I was told that the cemetery had been bought and sold a few times and that the current owners had filed bankruptcy and apparently took all of the cemetery records."

"Earlier this year, when visiting (the Sacramento Historic City Cemetery) to locate the burial location of my great-grandfather, my aunt and I visited the information office for information regarding my great-grandfather. During this visit, I inquired about any possible Bellview Cemetery records, since this is where my grandfather is buried."

"To my utter amazement, one of the ladies in the cemetery office was able to produce a listing, which gave my grandfather's plot number."

Unfortunately, Nola still did not have a map of the burial locations of the Bellview Cemetery. Consequently, she was still unable to locate the precise burial site of her grandfather.

Nola said that her mission to find her grandfather's burial plot was eventually aided by LaPerriere, who provided her with a map of the cemetery's plots.

"Using (the map and) existing headstones in this area, and with the assistance of Bob (LaPerriere), my father and my brother, we pieced together the 'grids,' if you will, of the layout of the indigent area of the cemetery, and we were able to determine where my grandfather is buried," Nola said. "The next critical piece was the headstone. Once that was ordered and arrived, it was time to, in my opinion, put my grandfather to rest properly. Permission was obtained from the owners of the cemetery to have a headstone placed, a local tombstone company laid the headstone I had made, and Matt Smith, a pastor with (The Table at Central) United Methodist Church (in Sacramento), provided a blessing of my grandfather's grave with myself and several family members in attendance (on Aug. 8, 2012). While I can't change (the) fact that my grandfather was buried (with remains of a person below him and remains of another person on top of him) or that he was buried without proper recognition, I finally feel that my grandfather is at peace and laid to rest properly."

Nola expressed much gratitude for the volunteer at the Sacramento Historic City Cemetery, LaPerriere and Matt Smith of the United Methodist Church for their assistance in her efforts.

When asked about any other plans that the commission might have in regard to deceased indigents, LaPerriere said, "We are hoping to eventually have listings on the commission's Web site of locations where indigents have been buried and also a listing of their names when available."

LaPerriere added that it is very gratifying for himself and the commission to honor the indigents or "lost souls" of Sacramento County.

"I've been involved with several families, helping them to locate the final resting place of a relative who was buried as an indigent," LaPerriere said. "I was always impressed by the impact and meaning the discovery of the location of their relative meant to them. Many (local indigents) were fathers or mothers, brothers or sisters and may still have relatives looking for them. These lost souls often were alone at death — a time when we all hope for the support of our loved ones. Please join us on Oct. 20 in paying respect to Sacramentans who have been forgotten for decades."

Flu: Take precautions to avoid it reaction to influenza vaccine previously and anyone who has ever had Guillain-Barré Syndrome (a disorder where the body's immune system mistakenly attacks its nervous system) should discuss vaccination with their doctors.

Know fact from fiction. Many people think of the flu as a severe cold with short-term symptoms that may lead to a few lost work-days/schooldays. However, the truth is, the seasonal flu can be a serious condition and even fatal in some cases. The seasonal flu hospitalizes 200,000 people in the U.S. each year and can kill between 3,000 and 49,000 people from complications caused by it. Some people are also afraid to get the vaccine because they believe it may cause the flu. However, injected flu vaccines only contain dead virus so it can't infect you. The nasal vaccine, known as FluMist, is the one type of live virus flu vaccine, but this virus is specially engineered to remove the parts of the virus that make people sick.

What should you do? Preventing the flu takes the same care as preventing other forms of illness. I advise my patients to practice good hand washing habits, avoid touching their faces when possible, and cover their mouths when they sneeze or cough. Symptoms of the flu range from mild to severe, but usually begin with a fever and body aches, and often include a cough and/or sore throat, a headache, a runny nose, fatigue and chills, and potentially vomiting, nausea and/or diarrhea. In many cases, the flu will resolve on its own in four to ten days with plenty of rest and liquids. If symptoms are severe, a doctor can prescribe antiviral medication to help lessen the duration and/or symptoms.

Take precautions when you are in public to prevent getting the flu, and don't forget to get vaccinated to stay healthy this flu season.

Michael Siegel, M.D. is the Corporate Vice President/Medical Director, Molina Healthcare, Inc.

Sacramento museums fall for Halloween and harvest fun

Special to Valley Community News

In addition to its fascinating Gold Rush past, the Sacramento area is rich with an amazing array of state-of-the-art museums and historic sites that offer visitors the chance to explore California's fine art, history, science, and wildlife treasures all year long. In October, many of the 30 members of Sacramento Association of Museums are offering fun Halloween and harvest-related events and activities sure to get guests in a festive spirit, including:

Spookomotive Train Rides at the Railroad Museum

Oct. 20, 21, 27 and 28: All aboard for some Halloween fun Old Sacramento style! The California State Railroad Museum is proud to offer diesel-powered "Spookomotive" train rides aboard a whimsically decorated train crawling with spiders, cobwebs and cornstalks while staffed with an entertaining "skeleton crew." For more, visit www.californiastaterailroadmuseum.org.

Wee Halloween at the Crocker Art Museum

Oct. 31: Celebrate the "wee" in Halloween with this fright-free alternative to trick-or-treating. Families will start by decorating treat bags before being guided in small groups through the galleries. Along the way, they will encounter gentle surprises in the form of music, poetry, and dance, and receive a non-candy treat at the end of each performance. The delightful Halloween stroll will end with a delicious celebration. For more, go to www.crockerartmuseum.org.

Safe and Super Halloween: A Grimm Halloween at Fairytale Town

Oct. 26, 27 and 28: Trick-or-treat at 17 candy stations as you wander through the Grimm Brothers' classic fairytales! Visit Sleeping Beauty's castle, venture through Little Red Riding Hood's forest, and sneak a peek at the Evil Queen's Lair. Enjoy three nights of family fun with hands-on activities, a costume parade and performances of "Goldilocks and the Three Sharks" by Puppet Art Theater Company (additional cost). East Sac schools test scores see surge in points

Special to the East Sacramento News

Overall, Sacramento City Unified Schools moved up eight points on the state's Academic Performance Index to 768. API numbers reflect student scores on various standardized tests taken in the spring of 2012. The API is a numeric index that ranges from a low to a high of 1,000. The state API target for all districts and schools is 800.

"I'm proud of all of our hard working students, teachers, principals, staff, parents and community partners and gratified that reforms aimed at turning around struggling schools are successful," said Superintendent Jonathan Raymond. "Despite state budget cuts, we are moving forward and improving teaching and learning in our schools."

SCUSD's eight middle schools had a collective increase of 199 API points. The biggest increases were in English Language Arts scores, a rise credited to the district's push to implement Common Core Standards in that subject. More than half - 55.3 percent - of SCUSD middle school students scored in the "proficient" and "advanced" ranges, an increase of 5.6 percent over 2011.

St. Francis High School holds record breaking food drive

Special to East Sacramento News

Sacramento Emergency Foodlink and the Elk Grove Food Bank got a big boost from the St. Francis High School student body, which collected 131,216 cans and packages of non-perishable food items, breaking last year's food drive record by 30,000 items.

Each fall St. Francis High School's Homecoming festivities involve numerous activities designed to build class spirit and unity, from pseudo-sports competitions to creating elaborate, theme-based decorations, skits, dances, songs and cheers. The annual Food Drive is part of the competition among the classes and serves as an amazing display of the power of young women to optimize their resources and serve their community.

Family connections in the food industry, grocery store requests and going door to door in their neighborhoods helped St. Francis students gather the extraordinary quantity of food, which included 1,008 ounces of baby formula, 17,328 cans of food from Raley's, 9,952 cans of fruits and vegetables, and 77,000 boxes of Mac and Cheese.

The main beneficiary of the food drive, Sacramento Emergency Foodlink, serves over 150 local agencies and food closets throughout the Sacramento community. Thirty percent of the food collected will be donated directly to the Elk Grove Food Bank.

St. Francis High School students also raised money through recycling, bake sales and a portion of sales from Leatherby's Family Creamery to raise $2,441 for Catholic Charities of Sacramento, Inc., an agency that provides a wide variety of social services to people and families in need throughout the 20 counties of the Diocese of Sacramento.

JANEY WAY MEMORIES

The Pit had a Life Cycle of its Own

By MARTIN RELLES
East Sacramento News writer
martinrelles@yahoo.com

When I first moved to Janey Way in 1952, the pit, the vacated sand and gravel site behind our house on the west side of Janey Way, seemed like just a big hole in the ground. We all went down into that hole to play regularly.

Eventually though, two prominent geographical features evolved in the pit:

1. Mt. Everest, a big mound on the western side of the site.
 2. A ravine running from south to north behind Mt. Everest.
- I remember standing atop Mt. Everest to look out over the entire area like some great general commanding a battle. It dominated the skyline of the whole area. We dug out a stairway from the top of Mt. Everest to the bottom of the pit.

While we used Mt. Everest as a lookout for Old Man Charlie, the watchman of the pit, we played most often down in the ravine behind the great mound. Trucks came into the pit routinely to off-load dirt, broken pieces of concrete and scrap lumber. We used those materials to build forts and construct ramps for off-rode bicycle races. Amazingly, none of us suffered any serious injuries there.

Over time, the pit took on a life cycle of its own. In the winter, pools formed in the ravine and after time, we saw small black critters swimming around in those pools. We thought they were fish at first, but a closer glance revealed they were pollywogs. We trapped them in mayonnaise jars, but they died quickly in captivity, so we decided to leave them alone.

Eventually, they turned into frogs, which hopped out of the pit and into the back yards on the west and south of the pit. My father appreciated the fact that those frogs feasted on the bugs, which infested his garden. I remember sleeping out on hot summer nights and hearing the cacophony of sound from the frogs croaking and the crickets chirping.

I don't know which made more noise, the sounds of those critters or the sounds we made chattering late into the night.

Sadly, by 1965, the pit had all but disappeared. The trucks had finally filled the big hole, and the Diocese of Sacramento constructed St. Francis High School on the east side of the site, while East Sacramento Little League built a baseball field on the west side near our house. I remember watching the younger Janey Way kids -- Tom Hart, Denis Tommasetti and John Ducray -- play senior league baseball games on that field.

These days, the pit exists only in our imaginations. St. Francis High School recently expanded to fill the area where the Little League diamond once stood. A girls' softball field now stands on the south side of the site where the pit was.

When I drive down M Street on the south side of the school, I try to remember what the pit must have looked like back then, but now it's just a fleeting image in the Janey Way memories of my mind.

Open house at fire station No. 8

Photos by Michelle Basurto, program specialist for the Sacramento Fire Department

The Sacramento Fire Department hosted a fire station open house promoting the "Have Two Ways Out!" program on Saturday, Oct. 6 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Fire Station 8, located at 5990 H Street. Copies of home escape planning grids were available for those who attended. A limited number of complimentary smoke and carbon monoxide detectors were raffled off as door prizes.

Families struggle because they see all of the losses that Alzheimer's brings.

*"Dad used to be able to build anything."
"Mom was world's best cook."
"My husband was a math whiz - now he can't handle our bank account."*

On the other hand, when the person with dementia arrives at a day program or in a care setting specifically designed for someone with memory loss, professional's accept that person where they are. They accept the fact that the person has memory loss. They see all the things the person can still do.

It's the old "glass half empty/glass half full" concept. Do you see, and celebrate, all the things that the person with dementia can still do? Can you help the person with dementia stay socially involved and active?

Our secure, gated community of 3.5 acres is situated on beautifully landscaped grounds! We provide Residential, Respite and Day Club services for people with Alzheimer's disease and related forms of memory loss.

BOO! It's Halloween Time!

By CORRIE PELC
Valley Community News writer
corrie@valcomnews.com

Wondering where to pick a great pumpkin or what's going on for Halloween? We've got you covered with some great ideas!

Get Pickin'!

Whether you're looking for the perfect pumpkin for jack-o-lantern carving, or hoping to catch a glimpse of Charlie Brown's Great Pumpkin, the good news is there's lots of options close to home to take the family and get in the Halloween spirit!

For instance, little ones can get out and pick their own pumpkin at the pumpkin patch at Fair Oaks Boulevard Nursery on the weekends until October 28 from 11am-3pm. According to Owner Debbie Woodruff there's also face painting, a straw bale maze, haunted house, and photo opportunities. They've also invited local food trucks to add to the experience.

"It's just us having fun in the neighborhood," Woodruff says. "We're just bringing the urban feel for a pumpkin fall gathering here."

Over in West Sacramento, Dave's Pumpkin Patch offers five acres of pick-your-own pumpkins, as well as the Cornival, which features a number of attractions from farm animals to the Pumpkin Princess Castle to the huge Jumping Pillow, says Manager Andee Solis. The "We've been here for over 25 years and each year we just get bigger and better, so we're pretty excited - this year is going to be one of our biggest yet," Solis adds.

And in South Sacramento, visitors to Roemer Pumpkin Patch get to take a hayride to its eight acre pick-your-own pumpkin patch. Owner Dan Roemer says the patch features a variety of pumpkin sizes, with the largest weighing in 100 pounds. The patch also features photo opportunities, a picnic area, and a five acre corn maze.

"It's a clean, safe, wholesome environment when they come out here," Roemer adds. "Just come out, enjoy yourself, pick a pumpkin and spend a couple of hours in a stress-free environment."

Here's a look at just a few of the pumpkin patches in the Sacramento region. Editor's note: As hours and details may have changed after press time, please make sure to call and confirm the following information before visiting. Please note most pumpkin patches close for the season on or before October 31.

Scarecrow Festival & Parade

Denio's Farmers Market and Swap Meet in Roseville is inviting the entire community to join in the first "Denio's Scarecrow Festival & Parade" on Saturday, October 20 from 10am-3pm. The day will feature a variety of activities for the entire family including pumpkin and treat bag decorating, kids carnival area, handmade treats, craft vendors, costume parade, live scarecrow auction and Trick or Treating within the scarecrow area.

Participants are invited to enter the scarecrow contest to help neighborhood schools and win fantastic prizes. All scarecrows will be available for viewing in the Denio's Scarecrow Arena throughout the event and will be judged by popular vote from festival visitors. Cash awards will be handed out to the top two scarecrows and a third will receive a special Denio's Choice Award. The costume parade will also have winners for the most creative and fun costumes.

An entry form and additional information about the Scarecrow Festival & Parade can be found at DeniosMarket.com.

On Saturday Oct. 6 from 11 a.m. to dusk, Sacred Heart held its 71st annual fall festival, complete with live music, bingo, a craft fair, farmers market booth, and more. They had Dinger from the River Cats Baseball team visit them. There was a lip sync and kick off by the SHPS cheerleaders, a hula hoop contest, and a night full of dancing with music by cover band "Zaragoza".

Annunciation Greek Orthodox Church has plan to expand

Special to the East Sacramento News

A project in phases

Big plans are underway for The Annunciation Greek Orthodox Church, located at the corner of Alhambra and F Street. New facilities, such as a courtyard, education and administration buildings, will replace their aging counterparts. New parking areas will increase parking capacity and a new access drive will improve circulation, on and off site.

After more than 20 years of considering various options to build new facilities at other locations, the parish has committed to renew and invest for the future at its present campus.

To the church community, this renewal represents a like for like replacement of facilities centered on a new campus heart – the Kardia.

Here's a bit of an overview

-The existing church will remain. It has a seating capacity of up to 450 people and is 7,380 square feet.

-The Kendron, or multipurpose center (social, cultural, recreational), provides meeting and recreational space as well as a small religious bookstore. Banquet seating capacity is 450. It's a total of 22,500 square feet, with 17,000 square feet at the ground level and a 5,500-square-foot mezzanine.

-The education and administrative building provides administrative and education space necessary for operations and ministry functions. The administration wing includes offices for the secretary, priests, and parochial assistants (youth, visiting clergy), a library and meeting rooms. The education wing will support the parish's daycare/preschool as well as its Sunday schools, youth programs and other various ministries that serve the community at large. This building will have two floors, totaling 16,800 square feet.

The project will be phased. Phasing depends upon the success of fundraising. It is envisioned that the Kendron can be initially developed, along with the Kardia and a portion of the parking lot. Under this scenario, the Parish will continue to operate out of the existing Kendron until the new Kendron completed and ready for occupancy. The next phase of the Master Plan would include adding the Education/Administration Building, its adjacent outside play area, the remaining parking lot, the access drive and balance of the Kardia enhancements.

A Proud Foundation

For more than 90 years, Greek Orthodox Christians have been served culturally and spiritually at facilities located at 600 Alhambra, just across from McKinley Park in East Sacramento. Initially the existing Church was constructed in 1952 by a proud group of energetic and patriotic Greek Americans eager to lay the foundation their children's future and the generations that would follow. As time went on, the community grew to become an integral part of the Sacramento Metropolitan region and subsequent generations acquired much of the block bounded by F and G streets (to the north and south) and Alhambra Boulevard and 30th Street (to the east and west).

Additional facilities such as the education/administration building and Kendron (Social Hall) were constructed over the years and have come to comprise the Annunciation's parish campus, which continues to serve Orthodox Christians of many backgrounds and ethnicities.

Changing needs and growth

Over the years the community's needs have changed significantly from those of a few immigrant families from Greece. The Annunciation Parish has become a thriving community of over five hundred supporting families with sister parishes in Elk Grove and Roseville. To better meet present and future needs, the Annunciation Parish has developed a Campus Master Plan that will replace its aging facilities and create a new parish identity. In the same manner that earlier generations laid the foundation that enabled the community to grow, the new Campus Master Plan represents the Annunciation's commitment to future generations, and reflects the Parish's role as an integral and dynamic community of Sacramento.

A new parish campus vision and master plan

Over the past 20 years the parish has entertained other options to relocate its campus away from the current site, but none came to fruition due to conditions that were beyond the Annunciation's control. In June 2010 the parish decided that there was no better place than its present campus upon which to rebuild and renew the spiritual, cultural, and civic connections make up the very fabric of the Annunciation Community. From this commitment a new Campus Master Plan – to be initiated in phases as resources allow – will enrich and enhance these very connections over the coming years.

The proposed Campus Master Plan is centered and organized around the Kardia (Greek for heart), a multi-function outdoor courtyard where the Annunciation will gather for cultural, religious, social, and community events.

It will front along Alhambra Boulevard and is situated between the existing Church and a new Kendron, which will replace the existing Kendron. The Kardia will be paved and landscaped with shrubs, lawns and trees which will provide the shade, atmosphere and ambience to transform the Kardia into a space that enhances the community and serves as the "Heart of the Campus".

Further, the Kardia is envisioned to act as a complementary visual extension of McKinley Park (across Alhambra Boulevard) through cool and restful shade found in its arcades and cloisters. As noted above, the Parish's existing Church – which fronts on Alhambra across from McKinley Park – will remain, on the north side of the Kardia.

Disclosure: Editor Monica Stark's husband works for the architecture firm, Comstock Johnson, which is heading up the plans.

'Celebrate Francie' aims to help beloved children's entertainer

By CORRIE PELC
East Sacramento News writer
Corrie@valcomnews.com

For 22 years, Francie Dillon has entertained children and families with her mix of music and storytelling, everywhere from Fairytale Town to area schools to hospital bedsides.

Now battling an undiagnosed neurological disorder, the community is rallying to support Francie in her time of need with "Celebrate Francie" – a fundraising event on Friday, Nov. 2 at Fairytale Town.

"Francie touches people's hearts and particularly the hearts of children," explains Terry Foley, organizer of Celebrate Francie. "It was a no-brainer that people would want to come together for her. If you had to choose a person for which you were going to do something, you might as well choose someone that everybody loves, and everybody loves Francie."

The "Voice of Fairytale Town"

Dillon – who was just named Arts Educator of the Year by the Arts &

Business Council of Sacramento, according to an article in the Modesto Bee – says she first started her business, then named Jazz Babies, in 1991 by teaching music appreciation in preschools.

During this time, a parent asked her if she performed at birthday parties. "I remember looking at her and thinking you've got to be kidding, right?" Dillon says with a laugh. "I didn't even know people could do this for birthday parties!"

Dillon decided to take a shot at performing at a private engagement, which eventually lead her to perform at the former Thursday Night Market on K Street and eventually Fairytale Town. Dillon says her first performance at Fairytale Town was the "most unique feeling in the world" and she walked away from it thoroughly enjoying the experience. "That was the kind of thing that started me on the avenue of being an entertainer," she adds.

For at least 15 years Dillon has been a special guest performer and program MC at Fairytale Town, according to the park's Executive Director Kathy Fleming.

However, Dillon is mainly known for the 25 storybook boxes that are stationed at each of Fairytale Town's sets throughout the park. The stories and songs she recorded for them, earned her the name the "Voice of Fairytale Town," Fleming says.

"She brings a love of literature, a love of play and fun to Fairytale Town," Fleming says when asked what Dillon brought to the park as a performer. "She brings her essence and it just represents what we do here so well, so it worked out well to have her as much as she's been here."

Overcoming Obstacles

From there, Dillon continued to perform and went on to record and publish her own album, "The Toy Box," which won the National Parents Choice Approval Award. She also began to cross over to teach adults how to bring music into the school setting through presenting at childhood education conferences, and currently teaching children's literature at California State University Sacramento.

Now battling an undiagnosed neurological disorder, the community is rallying to support the new East Sacramento resident, Francie Dillon, in her time of need with "Celebrate Francie" – a fundraising event on Friday, Nov. 2 at Fairytale Town.

Dillon says teaching other adults is crucial to her now with the physical limitations she is now experiencing. "It's very important that adults see the potential for creativity and joy that comes from music and storytelling, and for them to present it in such a way that we release the excitement about it," she adds.

In July 2011, Dillon sought medical attention for the symptoms of her condition, left her nearly bedridden. Although she has some mobility, her lack of balance affects her walk and leaves her unable to walk very far without needing to sit, and her speech alternates between normal and slurred. And her energy declined to where her Monday night lectures at Sacramento State left her incapacitated for the rest of the week.

Currently Dillon's condition has been undiagnosed by doctors, though they recognize it as a neurological disorder. Dillon says she is determined to find an answer.

"I've never felt like a victim," Dillon says. "I've never felt like why me? It has been more of a what can I do to understand this, overcome this, to get through this."

Celebrate Francie

Now unable to perform as she once did, Dillon is facing some financial hardships. To help her get through this period in her life, some of Dillon's friends asked her if they could put on a benefit to help raise money for her. Although Dillon says she was reluctant at first, they talked her into it and she finally agreed. "That is the hardest thing to be on the receiving end of such generosity," Dillon adds with emotion in her voice.

The benefit, Celebrate Francie, is being run by Foley, who was first introduced by Dillon when he hired her to perform at children's programs for Borders Books & Music in the Sacramento area. After hearing about Dillon's medical issues, Foley decided to step forward to take on the fundraiser.

The event will be held on Friday, Nov. 2, from 5:30-8:30 p.m. at Fairytale Town, which Fleming says is the logical place for it to happen. "Francie played a major role in the re-invigoration of Fairytale Town, so it just made sense," she says.

Foley says the fundraiser will feature a performance by Northern California band

Mumbo Gumbo, as well as family programming. He says further information can be found at CelebrateFrancie.com, where community members can also purchase tickets for the fundraiser and make donations. Additionally a trust fund for Dillon has been established at the Chase Bank on Florin Road in Sacramento.

"This is not a sad event – it's a happy event and it's a way for people to come together and celebrate Francie and the contribution she has made," Foley says. "And really that is what makes up the fabric of our community or any community is people coming together to honor and support one another."

Dillon says the money raised will allow her to take the steps she needs to adapt her past career as a children's entertainer to a new one that works within her current situation, as she knows she still has more to give.

"I can't believe that the universe is willing to let me just dissolve without making further contributions, I cannot believe that is the plan," Dillon says. "I believe I've got something to give that will benefit and be of service, and now it's my job to discover that. This benefit will give me the breathing room to make that happen, and to me the greatest gift of all is the room to discover that."

Celebrate Francie will take place Friday, Nov. 2, from 5:30-8:30pm at Fairytale Town. To purchase tickets and for further information, visit CelebrateFrancie.com.
