Shepard Garden and Arts Center helps keep community clubs going

Pócket News writer corrie@valcomnews.com

Did you know there's a society for those just looking to promote the culture of the iris flower, or that there's an association for those that collect watches and clocks?

If you do, than chances are you frequent the Shepard Garden and Arts Center, located adjacent to the rose gardens of McKinley Park in Sacramento.

"(The Shepard Garden and Arts Center is) a place for groups of people with like hobbies to come together and work together," said Ken Rothaus, president of the Board of the Shepard Garden and Arts Center, which meets at the Center. There are 32 clubs in the Center right now and basically we're there to support those clubs, the majority of which are in the gardening and artistic realms.

For Mabel Lotz, who has been the coordinator of the Center for the past 25 years, it's the "wonderful people" that come in every month that has kept her at her job for so long. "In fact, two of the clubs have made me an honorary member," she said. "I can't complain - I love my job."

Shepard: 32 clubs call the Shepard Garden and Arts Center home

the Center's Board and the Friends of the Shepard Garden and Arts Center, the Center was founded by eights clubs in 1941 in a different, smaller building back by the McKinley Park Rose Garden. He said Iva Gard Shepard, a Sacramento Bee garden columnist and leader in the garden community, was one of the early people involved in the Center who worked to convince the City of Sacramento that the clubs should have a larger space.

In 1953 their perseverance paid off, as the City Council agreed to provide some funds to build a facility, which Schroeder said started construction in 1957 and was dedicated on Sept. 17, 1958.

"Iva Gard Shepard was the president there for many, many years, I think probably until she passed away in 1970 or '71 or so," he said. "And the building itself was renamed the Iva Gard Shepard Garden & Arts Center in 1972 after she had died in her honor."

Today, Schroeder said, the Center's building consists of two main rooms – a small room called the East Room that can fit 45 people, and the main room that can fit 130. And to keep up the times, some recent upgrades have been initiated, including wireless Internet and upgraded sound system.

"We're trying to get into the 21st century and provide more tools for the clubs – basically whatever the clubs need to try to get them what they need," Rothaus said.

However, all these upgrades - along with general maintenance, utilities, and even the Center's staff, which is a City employee - are paid for by the Center. The Center leases the building from the City, Schroeder said. All this amounts to about $50,000 a year. To help raise money, the Center charges each of its clubs membership and room rental fees, and also holds about 22 weekend shows through the various clubs.

Recently, the Center decided to start renting to non-members when the facility is not in use. Rentals are restricted, so there are no weddings or live music after certain times of the day.

"We try to watch out for the neighborhood – we don't want to disturb anybody in the neighborhood," Schroeder said.

Through its various club meetings and shows, Schroeder said the Center sees about 8,000 to 12,000 people visiting the Center each year.

"It used to be up in the 15,000s and it's somewhat declined over the years," he said. "We used to have 40 clubs, now we have 32 – some of the clubs have gone."

Why the decline?

"Unfortunately in the environment we're in today, people do not join clubs as much as they used to," Rothaus said. "And (in) some of the clubs, the clientele are getting older and it's time to bring in some new blood so they last longer."

Lotz agrees.

"Younger people, they're so involved with their home and everything else that they don't take the time for gardening and that sort of thing. But I would hope that they could build up more clubs to come in, more members for each of the clubs so they could hold on and continue. That's the main thing at this point."

A VARIETY OF PLANTINGS surround the Shepard Garden and Arts Center. This is not surprising, because a number of gardening clubs meet at the facility in McKinley Park.

To help keep the Center going, Rothaus asks the community for its support.

"Visit the shows when they're there, go onto our Website to see when the clubs have their meetings and come to the meetings, and for the club that interests you...get involved," he said. "And once you get involved in the club, you can get involved in the Center. The important (thing is to) is get involved in the clubs first, because that's really the key to our being there."

For more information on the Shepard Garden and Arts Center, the clubs it currently serves, and a full calendar of events, visit www.sgaac.org.

Rogers family's Pocket area history dates back to 1865

By LANCE ARMSTRONG
Pocket News writer
lance@valcomnews.com

Among the early day families of the Pocket area was the Rodgers – later Rogers – family, whose history in the area dates back to 1865.

It was during that year that Albert, Joseph and John Mendes immigrated to the United States from the island of Pico in the Azores Islands of Portugal and made their way to the Pocket area.

Names changed

Upon their arrival in America, two of these brothers had their surnames changed, with Albert becoming Albert Rodgers, and John becoming John Potter. Joseph, however, continued to use his birth-given last name.

After making their way to the Pocket area, the brothers began working as laborers, most likely on local ranches, with their goal to accumulate sufficient money to buy their own property.

The Albert Rodgers family

In 1880, Albert, after purchasing his own property and establishing his own ranch in the Pocket area, married 16-year-old Rose Gear, who was born in the Azorean island of Terceira.

Since Rose Gear – a name obtained from descendents of the Albert Rodgers family – is not a Portuguese name, this name was possibly derived from the Portuguese name, Rosa Agear.

Together, Albert and Rose had the following children: Emma (1883-1889), Albert, Jr. (1885-1977), Willie (1887-1898), Mary (1889-1890), Emma (1892-1920), Margaret (1893-1978) and twins Frank (1896-1980) and George (1896-1984). The couple had two Emmas, as it was a common practice to reuse the name of a child, who had died at a very young age, when the next child of the same gender was later born.

Spelling change to 'Rogers'

Albert Rodgers, Jr. was the only member of his family to continue using the original spelling of his family's surname. Otherwise, the spelling of this surname was eventually changed to "Rogers."

The Rodgers children were raised on the family's 18-acre ranch, which was located where today's Park Rivera Way intersects with Pocket Road.

All of the children of Albert and Rose attended the original, converted barn Lower Lisbon School in the lower Pocket area.

The old school was washed away in the area's 1904 flood and the lumber from this school was hauled by horses and wagons to the Rodgers ranch. With this wood, a shed-type building was constructed for a temporary school until the new Lower Lisbon School was built.

The Rodgers also owned an additional 11 acres on the opposite side of the then-Riverside Road.

The 1908 Sacramento County Reclamation District 673 surveyors map clearly distinguishes this parcel, which extended from the levee across the old Riverside Road to not far from today's Florin Road.

Albert passed away when he was 74 years old in 1923 and Rose died when she 41 years old in 1905.

Ranch land divided

Following Albert's death, seven acres of his property remained in the family, as this land was divided amongst his children.

Frank had one acre, bordering Riverside Road to the west on the levee side of the property, and George built his home on the adjoining acre on the opposite side of the parcel.

Furthermore, Margaret kept four acres, which included the old home.

The other, seventh acre was located across the old Riverside Road, which was then considered a "wagon road," and became the property of Manuel "Parola" Perry, Sr. The Perry home was situated on the opposite side of the road from the Frank Rogers parcel.

Rogers descendants

Margaret, who was married on two separate occasions, was first married to Manuel Lee and then to Tony Machado.

The children of Manuel and Margaret, in order of birth, were: Laverne, Agnes, Gertrude and Dorothy.

Margaret and her second husband, Tony, did not have any children together.

The second-born Emma of Albert and Rose married Joseph Souza, who was known by the nickname of "Joe Bonnie."

Joe Bonnie's ranch was located south of the town of Clarksburg, where Joe Bonnie and the second Emma resided.

In a ceremony held on Dec. 16, 1916 at St. Joseph Church in Freeport (now Clarksburg), George married Anna "Annie" Fagundes, who was born on Oct. 6, 1897.

Mildred Rogers, who was born on May 17, 1919 and died on July 30, 1941, was George and Anna's only child.

George's employment included fishing commercially for catfish at the old brickyard – present day Lake Greenhaven – to Clarksburg.

Additionally, George owned a trucking business, which included three trucks that hauled produce

George, who passed away on May 15, 1984, also was a Pocket/Riverside school bus driver and a driver for the American Crystal Sugar Co. in Clarksburg. He worked for American Crystal for nine seasons, upon which time he retired in 1961.

Like his brother George, Frank established his own family. He married Mary Agnes Silva (1900-1971), the daughter of Antone L. and Maria Silva of the Pocket, on Nov. 12, 1917.

This union produced two daughters, Lorraine, who married Joseph Lester Valine, and Aileen, who married Richard Cabral.

Many locals are familiar with Joseph and Lorraine Valine's son, Roger Valine, who served as the chief executive officer of Vision Service Plan, which was recognized as the nation's largest eye care wellness benefits provider.

Establishing his own long employment career, Frank, after marrying Mary Agnes, began a trucking business that included six trucks. These trucks were used to haul hay and produce.

Frank purchased a 43-acre ranch, adjacent to and north of the John M. "Joao Maria" Silva ranch, where he planted asparagus and later sugar beets, tomatoes and alfalfa.

Unfortunately mixed in with Frank's many positive moments in life was his serious accident on the Sacramento River.

While Frank was in his rowboat on the river, his gun became entangled within the boat's structure and the gun was discharged and a bullet passed through his left hand.

Although Frank injured his hand, he was nonetheless able to mostly overcome this handicap and lead a relatively normal life.

Frank's 43-acre ranch was part of the historic McGee Ranch. This ranch was first sold to Anna Leonora Garcia Pimentel and then later purchased by Joe Sarmento and Frank "Capitao" ("Captain") Perry.

Frank Rogers eventually purchased the property from Sarmento and Perry.

During the late 1960s, Frank sold his property to a real estate firm for develop-

The real estate firm later sold a portion of this acreage to the city of Sacramento for the purpose of creating Garcia Bend Park and its boat launch ramp.

Sacramento SPCA offers pet services to senior citizens

Pocket News writer sally@valcomnews.com

Imagine an older woman in her wheel chair; leaving her Natomas home in the morning with her little dachshund bundled up on her lap, switching between light rail and the bus for three hours to reach her destination point.

The woman was bringing her dog to the Sacramento Society for the Prevention of Cruelty for Animals (SPCA) located at 6201 Florin Perkins Road, where a program called "Senior Services" provides free pet vaccinations to senior citizens age 60 and over the first Wednesday of each month from 10 a.m. to noon.

This woman arrived late and was incredibly grateful and gracious to us when we told her we would vaccinate her dog that day," SPCA Senior Services Coordinator Shari Lowen said. "Our goal is keeping seniors and their pets together."

Pet, senior needs met

"No one can argue the benefits of keeping seniors and their pets together," Lowen said. "The senior program provides free vaccinations, nail trims, and pet adoptions."

The money saved on free pet vaccinations provide many seniors money needed for pet food.

Lynn Humphries, 'A Sure Solution' consultant, thinks the SPCA Senior program is wonderful.

Three years ago I received a call from a gentleman who had a sick dog and no money. At that time the SPCA didn't have a senior program, so I split the cost of the veterinarian fees with a friend," Humphries said. "The man started crying when he found out his dog was going to

Humphries said the folks who volunteer with "Meals on Wheels" keep their eyes open for seniors who might need assistance with a pet.

Lori Olshaskie, Meals on Wheels' Social Services supervisor, said she has known seniors on fixed incomes who would rather see their pet eat than themselves.

The level of love and commitment to their pets is amazing," Olshaskie said. "Especially when a person lives alone, having a pet makes a huge difference in that per-

Meals on Wheels is grateful for pet food donations and is willing to pick them up.

Golf tournament

The SPCA holds an annual golf tournament to raise money for the Senior Service program. It will take place Monday, May 7 at the Del Paso Country Club, presented by Hank Fisher.

In addition to free vaccinations, the Senior Service program provides discounted dog training, free telephone assistance with dog and cat behavior issues and discounted private animal behavior consultations. They also provide quarterly estate planning seminars that include information about options for pets in the event the owner is no longer here to care for them.

Future programs

Lowen said the SPCA is working on a program where volunteers go to the senior's home and provide whatever services his or her pet might need, such as transportation to the veterinarian because many seniors no longer drive. The SPCA is trying to get volunteers together to walk dogs for folks who are immobile or not able to walk far.

Soroptimists, Library look to raise awareness on human trafficking

By CORRIE PELC
Pocket News writer
corrie@valcomnews.com

Here's something you may not know about Sacramento: the capital city is among 18 medium-sized US cities identified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) as a hub for human trafficking.

Sacramento is among the top cities experiencing an epidemic of child prostitution, according to the nonprofit refugee resettlement agency's Website said an estimated 600,000-800,000 people are trafficked across international boundaries every year, and some 14,500-17,500 people are trafficked into the US.

Modern slavery

What is human trafficking? According to Opening Doors it is defined as "modern slavery" – victims as young as 13 and as old as 54, and of both genders, are forced, frauded or coerced into the commercial sex industry, involuntary servitude, debt bondage or slavery.

What makes Sacramento such a hub for human trafficking? Opening Doors said one reason is its large immigrant population. And Kathleen Crone, treasurer of Soroptimist International of Sacramento South (SISS) said it also has to do with Sacramento's location.

"We're so centrally located to so many freeways. If a group has been identified, it's very easy for whoever is in charge of this group to get them out of Sacramento quickly," Crone said. "And (it's) then easy access to Reno, Las Vegas, Los Angeles – it's just kind of the hub of the wheel."

Lack of information

As ending human trafficking is one of the major programs of Soroptimist International, the South Sacramento chapter was looking for a way to help by educating their members on the subject. As they started the process, however, they soon found that for a city where human trafficking is a problem, the information was not that easy to find.

"I started acquiring some books (on human trafficking) that I passed around to (our) members, but some of them were very expensive that we wanted to read," said SISS member Dori Holmer. "So I contacted the (Sacramento Public Library) to find out what they had and they had nothing they had not supplied any human trafficking books to their readers at all. So one of our members suggested: why don't we buy some books for the library. So we

Books at library

Holmer said SISS presented the Sacramento Public Library with a list of 20 suggested books on human trafficking. SISS chose 10 of those books to purchase and donate to the library system, while the library purchased the other books to add to their collection.

"Any time someone approaches us and they want to donate materials, especially when they are quality materials of a nature that is current and it's relevant to the community, we want to take those in and make those available to the public," said Brenda Haggard, strategic communications officer for the Sacramento Public Library.

Travelling display

However, SISS also felt it was important for library patrons to know such books were available. To help spread the word, they asked Sacramento Public Library if they could put up a display about the books and the human trafficking issue and the Library said "Yes."

"We felt that we needed some way of letting people know that the books were there and available and to create an interest in reading them," Holmer said. "We had discovered in talking to people that they are shocked to learn that first of all slavery exists, and second that it exists in Sacramento. So we thought a display would be helpful."

The books and human trafficking display were officially made available on Jan. 11, which was International Human Trafficking Awareness Day, Haggard said.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING, or modern slavery, exists in every part of Sacramento. The members of Soroptimist International of Sacramento South (SISS) donated books on this issue to the Sacramento Library, which did not have any literature on this issue prior to the donation.

"(The display) will be at the Central Library for about a month and then travel to five other libraries in the system over the next few months," she said.

According to Crone, the display will be moved to the Colonial Heights Library in March, Belle Cooledge Community Library and Martin Luther King, Junior Regional Library in April, and Rancho Cordova Library in May. The display includes information on the human trafficking books, as well as informational sheets, objects that represent trafficking – such as handcuffs and barbed wire - and also posted hotline numbers in the hopes if a trafficked individual happens to see the display they would have access to ways of help, Crone

Awareness is first step

Both SISS and the Sacramento Public Library hope both the books and the display will help create awareness around the issue of human trafficking.

"Awareness is always the first step to solving a problem, so providing the information that brings the awareness will be a vehicle to help solve the problem we hope," Haggard said. Crone hopes this proj-

Crone hopes this project may be the beginning of more for SISS, such as possibly utilizing rooms at various libraries to make presentations and other projects to help make hotline numbers more accessible to trafficking victims.

"We hope that we can do a little bit more than just this – it's really just the beginning of a big problem," she said.

Band leader celebrates 75 years of playing for dance fans

Special to Pocket News

Buddy stands up, saxophone strapped and hanging from his neck. The legendary band leader starts the count: "One-twothree-four." Then the downbeat. Fourteen professional musicians follow as he celebrates his 75th year of showcasing America's favorite big band dance hits.

On Sunday, Jan. 22 at 2 p.m., Orval "Buddy" Harpham and his big band will kick off the 11th annual "Super Swinging Ball" at the Pocket's Elks Lodge No. 6. Starting with "What's New," northern California dancers will joyfully swing to Buddy's carefully chosen song sequence of tunes.

As one of the co-founders of the Nor Cal Big Band Preservation Society, Buddy's career began in 1937 as a 16-year old playing in Sacramento's "Dime a Dance Emporium."

The Auburn native never looked back.

Pre-World War II found Buddy in many Nor Cal combos and big bands. Drafted in 1942, his U.S. Navy days were spent in San Diego, followed by selection to the Marine Corps Band based in Washington, D.C. In the late 1940s, he toured America with name bands.

Buddy holds fond college memories of the College of the Pacific (now University of the Pacific) with roommate and famed jazz legend Dave Brubeck. He began teaching in the early 1950s at Sacramento elementary and middle schools, retiring after 35 years.

All along, he led his own 15-piece band for 63 years. Buddy remains amazingly active and solos on all reeds.

He turned 90 years old last November.

The Jan. 22 dance will be Buddy's 33rd appearance in the Elks Ballroom at 6446 Riverside Blvd. in Sacramento. Lvnn Steiner, vocalist with the band for the last 11 years, will also perform.

Singles and couples of all ages are welcome. Special talent will be at 1 p.m. Snacks will be at 3 p.m. and prizes at 4 p.m. Dance hosts will be available. Regular admission is $12, $11 per person in groups of 10 or more and $10 for Nor Cal Big Band Gold Card Society members.

Opportunities for the 'Young Set' at Pocket-Greenhaven Library

Parents of babies and toddlers can find many opportunities for their little ones to play, learn and socialize at the Robbie Waters Pocket-Greenhaven Library.

One can pick up flyers on the various programs available by dropping by the library, but the easiest way to see what is available is to go online. The library posts all activities at its Website, www.saclibrary.org. Click on "Events," then select "Robbie Waters Pocket." Web visitors can also select specific types of programs, such as "Baby Storytime" or "Preschool Storytime."

During the rest of January, the library will offer a number of programs for little ones, including:

Baby Toddler Stay & Play Jan. 24, Jan. 31 at 10:15

a.m.: This is an unstructured social time for babies and toddlers (ages 0 and up. Older siblings are welcome as long as everyone can play nicely together), and their caretakers. Developmental toys and board books will be available. These informal play sessions will typically be followed by a baby-and-me storytime (ages 0-18 months) or a Mr. Cooper performance (last Tuesdays of the month, ages 3-7 years and their families).

Baby and Me Rhyme Time

Jan. 24 at 11 a.m.: Babies (ages 0 months to 24 months) and their caretakers are invited to join for songs and rhymes in this language enrichment program designed to boost brain development.

Preschool Storytime for

Jan. 26 at 10:30 a.m.: Stories and songs geared towards the preschool-age set (3-5 years). No registration required; drop-ins welcome.

Sing Along with Mister Cooper

Jan. 31 at 11 a.m.: Sing and learn with Mister Cooper for 30 minutes of pure entertainment, on the last Tuesday of every month. For children ages 3 to 7 and their families.

Not only are these excellent, quality programs for little ones... they are wonderful opportunities for parents, grandparents and caregivers to get out and socialize" with other adults, too.

The Robbie Waters Pocket-Greenhaven Library is located at 7335 Gloria Drive in Sacramento. For more information, call (916) 264-2700.

Write your family cookbook

Special to Pocket News

If you've ever wanted to compile recipes from your family, or put together a cookbook from relatives for a bride and groom, you'll learn that your project can be more than a scrapbook at a special adult program at the Belle Cooledge Library, Jan. 21 through March 3 on Saturdays from 10

Learn how to focus on which of your favorite recipes to select, how to gather, test and transcribe old written recipes on index cards into modern directions. Students will learn how to write headnotes and finish a cookbook that's accurate. Print-on-demand options, often in hardback and in color, will be discussed. No writing experience necessary.

Elaine Corn received both the James Beard and Julia Child cookbook awards for Best General Cookbook for Now You're Cooking: Everything A Beginner Needs to Know to Start Cooking Today. Corn has taught food writing at the Culinary Institute of America, Napa Valley Community College, American River College and Cosumnes River College. With her degree in journalism, Corn has covered food for multiple newspapers across the country, winning awards for Best Food Section and Best General Reporting.

Classes take place Jan. 21 through March 3 on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon. There is no class on Feb. 18. Registration is $267 per person. Participants will receive a PayPal invoice after registration. Registration IS required to attend.

The Belle Cooledge Library is located at 5600 South Land Park Drive in Sacramento. To register, call (916) 264-2700, visit www.saclibrary.org or visit the library.

Discovery Museum brings the future of robotics to Sacramento youth

By CORRIE PELCPocket News writer corrie@valcomnews.com

With how technology has been advancing lately, almost on a daily level, it's not that hard to imagine a world where robots are an integral part. Just look at IBM's su-percomputer "Watson" that beat some the best contestants ever to be on Jeopardy! just last year.

At the Discovery Museum Science & Space Center in Sacramento, children can start preparing for a future including robots at the new Robotics Club, which started in February 2011.

The future of most things is robotics," said Anika Greene, robotics coordinator for the Discovery Museum. "Mercy (Hospital) now has robotic surgery, NASA is concentrating on robotic exploration -- there are things that robots can do that humans can't do, so people are tending to look more into robotics and how it can be used for everyday tasks. So it's definitely going to be something that's a part of their future. And so learning about it now gives them a chance to be a part of robotics when they get older, as well as just give them an understanding of what it is about."

The Robotics Club is geared towards students ages nine to 14 and meets every Friday evening from 4 p.m. to 5:30 pm. Over an eight-week period, students use Lego Mindstorms® technology to build and program a robot to accomplish a specific task.

Students can then repeat the club as every eight-week project is different. For example, the club just finished a project where they built Sumo-Bots - fighting robots where, like sumo wrestlers, they have to try to push each other off a table. Greene said other projects have included building a smaller robot and programming it to run a maze, and even a "Body Forward" project that explored biomedical engineering.

Power up

While building robots may sound cool, it may not be for every child. Greene said the Robotics Club is best geared towards children that are interested in technology and want to learn how to pro-

THE FUTURE IS NOW. Students from the ages of nine to 14 are learning how to build, program and work with robots as part of the Discovery Museum Science & Space Center Robotics Club.

"If your child has a real interest in LEGOs and robotics and technology and working with computers, that makes them perfect for this club," she said.

For Susan Kear of Davis, signing her 13-year-old son Westley up for the Robotics Club was a "no-brainer" due to his avid interest in technology, engineering and robotics.

I wanted to build robots with other kids and I already liked using Lego Mindstorms," Westley said.

Additional skills

Greene said while kids in the Robotics Club will obviously learn how to work with Lego Mindstorms and basic programming skills, they will walk away with much more than just that.

"They're working on a team, so they learn teamwork skills, they learn how to communicate with others," she said. "They learn how to problem solve because with robots it doesn't always work correctly the first time or the way they think it's going to work so they have to problem solve on how to fix it. So it's much more than just building a robot and programming it."

Kear agrees.

"Finding mentors for your child in the area of their interest can be challenging. (Staff) are not only knowledgeable about robotics, but also spend much of their time teaching the kids how to work constructively in groups and as a team. We have seen amazing leaps in Westley's social maturity and confidence, in addition to his robotics and programming knowledge."

Hopeful future

So what does the future hold for the Robotics Club? Greene said they hope to offer both open and closed labs for those that wish to work on robotics projects when the Discovery Museum moves to the new Powerhouse building in about 2014. She adds they are also looking at expanding their school programs regarding robotics with potential outreach programs, as well as hosting robotics-related events.

And while the club's participants are mainly boys, Greene hopes to change that.

We always love to see girls in robotics because robotics is going to become a huge part of our young people's lives in the future and so it would be great to have as much exposure with robotics for both boys and girls," she said.

The Discovery Museum's Robotics Club is $60 for members and $75 for non-members. For more information, call (916) 808-3942 or visit www.thediscovery.org/museum-programs/robotics-club.

Greenhaven Pocket Rotary generous with dictionaries

sally@valcomnews.com

Ms. Moore and Ms. Saechao's third grade classes at Yav Pem Suab Academy School were in for a big surprise on Judy Foote, treasurer of the Rotary Club of Pocket Greenhaven, presented each child and teacher with a new picture dictionary.

Pam Whipple, school nurse and safety coordinator said the quality of the dictionaries was impressive.

"I watched the students reactions to receiving the dictionaries and they were immediately engaged," Whipple said. "The illustrations in the dictionaries help bring the words to life."

Foote began the morning by introducing the five Rotary Club members who came to present the dictionaries to the children. Each member talked to the students about the importance of a good education and how they too were excited that each child was receiving a new dictionary. Foote gave a short speech to the students explaining what the Rotary Club is about and that it is an international organization of business people who serve others locally, nationally and internationally. She asked the children if they could explain the purpose of a dictionary. Many students raised their hands eagerly, hoping to be called on.

Clarence Parkins, District Foundation Chair, said the dictionary project started in 2004 with two clubs participating with 167 books purchased for three elementary classes in two schools. In 2011, 35 District Rotary clubs purchased 9,990 books, providing dictionaries to approximately 96 area elementary schools.

Foote says the Rotarians enjoy giving the dictionaries away just as much as the kids enjoy receiving them.

Third grade teachers Ms. Moore and Ms. Saechao said they are thankful to the Rotary Club for donating the dictionaries. Moore said the colorful picture dictionaries are amazing.

"Before the Rotary Club came to distribute the dictionaries, there was one dictionary the class had to share," Moore said. "Now the students can't stop using their dictionaries. One child told me the day he received his dictionary was the best day of class."

One of the highlights for Rotary International is literacy and passing out the dictionaries to the third graders at Yav Pem Suab Academy was truly a highlight.

Necessities Bag 'Pillow Party' a success

By SALLY KING Pocket News writer sally@valcomnews.com

The Fellowship Hall at the Central United Methodist Church was filled with women of all ages bustling about, getting work stations set up for the quarterly "Pillow Party" on Jan. 9.

Necessities Bag Volunteer Coordinator Joan Eddy felt the energy in the room and began the evening by thanking the volunteers who came to make comfort pillows for women recovering from breast cancer mastectomies.

"I anticipated around 45 volunteers, but I know we have more than that," Eddy said. "Our goal is to make 120 pillows and I think we will exceed that amount."

The final headcount for the evening was 68 volunteers and Eddy said a "whopping 262 pillows."

Necessities Bags are reusable totes filled with handmade pillows for wound care, comfort and practical items given to women facing mastectomies.

Sacramento resident Ellen Mack started necessities Bag Sacramento in August 2005 after she underwent surgery for a bilateral mastectomy and reconstruction and found the surgery traumatic. She wanted to comfort other women going through this surgery and had read an article about an organization in Connecticut that provided a tote filled with practical items and information specific to women facing mastectomies. Mack believed women needed this service in Sacramento and by April 2006, Necessities Bag Sacramento was incorporated. There are 15 affiliates throughout the country.

Omega Nu Sorority member Wendy Weir said their group donates the money made from Bunko Night to Necessities and most of them attend the quarterly "Pillow Party"."

"This is a good way to give back," Weir said. "And I do have friends who have or have had breast cancer."

Dixon resident Grace Bedoian who is a breast cancer survivor sees this as a way to help other women. She has attended six of these parties. She hopes the person receiving the pillow is comforted.

"Doing this makes me feel warmer," breast cancer survivor Sue Clark said. "These pillows are good for women who have had radiation treatments too. The pillow protects the area where it's sore from the treatment."

Buford Goodenough said he showed up because he likes to volunteer and this is a project that is near and dear to his heart. He works with a breast cancer survivor.

Volunteers could choose one of six stations to work. The first station had women busy cutting fabric, the second group matched fabrics up and pinned them together. There was a whir of sewing machines where volunteers were sewing fabric together at the third station. The group at station four trimmed the corners and turned the fabric right side out and handed them off to a small group ironing the fabric. The next group stuffed Polyfill into the pillows and handed them off to the last group who hand sewed the small opening on the side of the pillow together.

Through the whole evening, only one small hitch interfered with the assembly line process. Early in the process some of the sewing machines lost power, but Eddy had it fixed right

This is the Jaime Clifton's second time volunteering for this project. She attends Laguna Hills High School and sees this as a good way to receive community credits.

A young boy and girl whose mother recently passed away from breast cancer and their aunt were helping sew the pillows together.

Lynn Smith is 88 years old and was stuffing the pillows.

"This is my meditation," Smith said. "I have to keep busy after losing my husband of 53 years and this makes me feel good."

Ask any of the volunteers who showed up and there would be a big smile and a feeling of warmth as many of them expressed how much they enjoy being a part of this quarterly event, knowing that somewhere there is someone who is using that small pillow as a comfort in a painful, scary situation.

A-WHIR WITH ACTIVITY, volunteers for Necessities Bag manned six stations to create comfort pillows for women recovering from breast cancer mastectomies on Jan. 9. Some cut fabric, others pinned it, some sewed while others trimmed, stuffed or finished the pillows. The groups goal was to create 162 pillows, but a "whopping 262" pillows were made in one evening.
